Wilson Ready to Call Congress if Lusitania Disaster Is Repeated—Final Statement of Attitude Sent Berlin

NEUTRALS' RIGHTS MUST BE OBSERVED ON SEAS

American Government Will Leave Nothing Undone to Stand by Position Assumed at Outset, Is Made Clear

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 22.—The new warning Germany that any repetition of a disaster similar to that of the Lusitania or any violation of American rights on the high seas resulting in the loss of American lives will be treated as "unfriendly" is the latest in a series of statements from the American government.

The communication was completed at a long conference between President Wilson and Secretary Lansing at the White House.

On the afternoon of July 21, the telegraph wires from the night and day were being flashed over the cables to London and to Copenhagen, where it goes over land wires again to the German foreign office. It should reach its destination tonight or early tomorrow and will be made public simultaneously in Berlin and Washington.

Secretary Lansing announced the text of the note would be given out here Saturday. Then will follow a period of waiting until the note is received in Berlin.

Concerning future conduct of Germany, the note does not become a threat, but it does announce the intention of the United States to regard any further violation of international law resulting in the loss of American lives as unfriendly.

On the other hand, the note does not disavow any intention to stand by the Lusitania, and the request for the return of the ship is a new one, and very likely those and other points such as the willingness of the United States to act as an intermediary between the belligerents to adjust the rights of neutrals will be taken up for further discussion by Germany.

STATEMENT IS FINAL.

An answer is not expected for at least two or three weeks. It generally is agreed among officials here, however, that the note is a final statement of the American position in the Lusitania case. It is the nature of the note that it is a final statement of the American position in the Lusitania case. It is the nature of the note that it is a final statement of the American position in the Lusitania case.

It is the nature of the note that it is a final statement of the American position in the Lusitania case.

President Wilson has given careful consideration to eventualities to which his new note may commit the United States and he believes it places squarely on Germany responsibility for any further loss of American lives.

There now is no indication that the Lusitania case itself will cause a rupture or that the American government will stand by its position as it has done in the past. The note is a final statement of the American position in the Lusitania case.

Marión Piled Up Woe By Invoking Law on His Mother-in-Law

Marión Dickson Started Something He Couldn't Stop When He Took Wife's Relatives Into Court

There are reasons why Dickson's initial visit was so impressed upon him, and it is not likely that he will ever visit to a court room.

Here is what happened to Dickson in the space of two hours in the court room of Judge George L. Bell:

First: He heard the protestations of love which he made to her.

Second: He heard his mother-in-law denounce his conduct toward his wife.

Third: He heard Judge George Bell declare that he was going to protect "against such a man."

Fourth: He heard his wife's attorney announce that he was going to protect "against such a man."

Fifth: He heard the judge declare that he was going to protect "against such a man."

Sixth: He narrowly escaped being sent to jail for contempt of court for using profane language in the witness chair.

To the fact that he had never been in court before, Dickson probably added the fact that he was being sent to jail for contempt of court.

The young man apologized profusely to the judge, declaring that he completely forgot himself, and added that he had never before been in a court room.

In these circumstances, Judge Bell overruled the objection and allowed Dickson to continue his testimony.

Dickson's troubles began shortly after Judge Bell began hearing his petition for divorce from his wife, Mary.

Interstate Commerce Commission Modifies Orders—Holds Revenues Are Inadequate

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 22.—The interstate commerce commission decided today that the rates of express companies are inadequate and modified its former orders to provide additional income.

In accordance with the commission's decision, the rates of express companies will be increased by 10 cents per hundred pounds for weight, and the distance and the rate of transportation.

Sherriff Declares That Situation Is Beyond His Control and Militia Is on Way—Two Fires Started

NEW YORK, July 22.—Two men were killed and six seriously injured in a riot today at the Standard Oil and Tidewater plants in Bayonne. Two attacks were made on deputies guarding the property.

Two fires also occurred, one in the Standard Oil plant, where a watchman's house virtually was destroyed, and the other in the yard of the Tidewater company, where staves and lumber were stored.

The latter fire was started by means of burning oil waste thrown over the walls by rioters. It speedily was checked with trifling loss.

Those killed in the fighting were Stanley Murdock, 25 years, and Nicholas Iwaszko, 19, both of whom were shot through the heart with rifle bullets, apparently fired by the guards.

The men were killed during an attack on the barrel works of the Tidewater plant which began at 1:40 p. m. and lasted for half an hour. The strikers defied the guards and the police.

Adjutant General Goes to See if Troops Are Needed

TRENTON, N. J., July 22.—Sheriff Kinkead, of Hudson county, today requested Governor Fielder to order troops to cope with the strike situation at Bayonne.

A request was made to the governor at Jersey City and he at once called Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler from Trenton to consult with him. It is understood Sheriff Kinkead expressed fear that the striking in of special deputies would aggravate the situation in Bayonne.

Governor Fielder later ordered Adjutant General Sadler to proceed to Bayonne and report what troops, if any, were needed.

The conciliators are Mr. J. W. Smith and Mr. J. A. Smythe. They are to act as mediators between the strikers and the company.

JACKSON AND ANDREWS ROYALTY TAKEN CUBS Men and Religion Leader and Legislator in Hot Dispute Before Committee

A hot dispute between Marion Jackson and Walter P. Andrews concerning the proposed amendment to the constitution of the state, which would give the clergy the right to vote, was heard today by the committee on the constitution of the house Thursday morning.

Mr. Jackson is the writer of the Men and Religion bill. Mr. Andrews is a member of the house from Fulton county and is a member of the temperance committee of the house Thursday morning.

Mr. Jackson asserted that the locker clubs of Atlanta are violating the prohibition law and making hundreds of thousands of dollars annually from the sale of whiskey.

"How do you know that?" demanded Mr. Andrews.

Mr. Jackson cited figures filed with the city clerk of Atlanta by the locker clubs, which he said were closed, according to him, that the clubs made a profit last year from their business of selling whiskey.

CANDLER TO BE CHIEFHARRIS' STAFF, BELIEF

Also Believed Nash Will Be Retained as Adjutant General

It was generally understood in state house circles Thursday that Governor Harris would make formal announcement Friday of at least a part of his staff and that he will also send to the senate for confirmation, his appointee as adjutant general of the Georgia national guard. It is understood that Asa G. Candler, of Atlanta, will be chief of staff.

While no official indication has come from the executive offices as to who will be named adjutant general it is generally believed that the incumbent, General J. Van Holt Nash, will be reappointed to serve in that capacity during the administration of Governor Harris.

The governor now has before the general assembly a bill designed to give the chief executive of the state full power in the appointment of his staff, thus enabling him, where he sees fit, to name his friends and supporters irrespective of former military service in the national guard. Under the present law, the governor cannot appoint to his staff any man who has not seen five years military duty in the state.

It is because of this exigency that Governor Harris will give out only a part of his staff at this time, reserving places for civilians who will be eligible only after the present militia bill is amended in accordance with his request to the legislature.

SOLDIERS' HOME PROBE POSTPONED ONE WEEK

Committee Meets to Find It Has No Copy of Charges Made

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Georgia house of representatives Wednesday morning, a committee of twelve members of the house, one from each congressional district, met at the Confederate Soldiers' home Wednesday afternoon to investigate charges made against the management of the home by Veterans H. H. Colquitt and others. Because Veteran H. H. Colquitt, leader of 10 protesting veterans was absent, said by Judge Fred G. Foster, to be intoxicated, who said he spoke on the authority of twelve veterans who saw Colquitt leave the home in that condition, and because of the fact that not one of the committee had a copy of the charges with him, the meeting adjourned over until 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, July 23. At this time the investigating committee expects to bring with it the charges which it will investigate.

CHIEF COOY WANTS FIRECISTERNS PUT IN SHAPE

Supply of Emergency Should Be Kept Up, Says New Head of Department

An investigation into the condition of the cisterns used in emergencies by the fire department has been inaugurated by Chief William B. Cooy, new head of the department.

Out of thirty cisterns, which the city formerly had, nine have been filled up with dirt, seven will be useless until they are repaired and some of the remaining thirteen are not filled with water.

While in the last administration the cisterns were considered antiquated and not of much importance, Chief Cooy does not share this view and is much interested in getting the old system back into use.

Thursday Chief Cooy will visit the various cisterns with the chief of construction to secure an estimate of the cost of repair, which he will report to the next meeting of the board of fire-masters.

Cunningham broke loose, but after six blocks of sprinting, he was caught again by the fleet-footed chief, and this time he reached the station safely in the patrol.

George Brown, manager, and W. Watson, clerk, were arrested and then released on a copy of charges.

Chief of Police Beavers got in some personal police work Wednesday.

In the morning he arrested R. L. Cunningham, 292 Lawton street, not far from the chief's house, on a charge of "drunk and disorderly." The chief led Cunningham to a call box to call the patrol. Cunningham broke loose, but after six blocks of sprinting, he was caught again by the fleet-footed chief, and this time he reached the station safely in the patrol.

Wednesday afternoon the chief visited several locker clubs, and made cases against the Greek club, on Alabama street, charging the unlawful sale of beer.

No--"Tipping" Is Not an Evil
No harm is really done when Mrs. Jones "tips" Mrs. Smith over the back yard fence. Her "tip" has to do with a real red-hot bargain in the store news of The Journal, an article that both of them want.
Thousands of these "tips" are freely given every day concerning the store news of The Journal.
These little situations are a barometer of the intense interest the store news of The Journal holds for the modern housewife.
Such interest as this could be developed and maintained only on the foundation of valuable service rendered.
Journal store news DOES render a valuable service to the housewife.

Empire Tires RED WEAR LONGEST
Mileage Costs Less to Men Who Ride on Empire REDS
If somebody could pass a wand over your tires and make them proof against blow-outs, friction and cuts, you'd want to buy the wand. Buy Empire RED Tires and you'll get practically the same result.
The RED Rubber in Empire REDS stays fresh. Time and travel can't sap its bounce or strength like gray rubber, because it is free of chemicals that disintegrate. Empire REDS don't blow out or give out--only long hard wear can get them.
Empire RED Tires are not sensitive to heat--they stay cool under terrific speed. That keeps friction off the job, and spares your wallet.
Empire RED Rubber, having greater resiliency, contracts on cuts and keeps them from spreading. It doesn't rot or get brittle--it always gives maximum wear.
The Empire Non-skid Tread is extra thick and as safe as it is thick.
Empire REDS are not sold on a mileage basis, but on the basis of your satisfaction. If you don't get your money's worth, we will make good. That's the safe and sure way for you.

Bad Liver, Indigestion, Sleepless, Thin and Pale.

Atlanta, Ga.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery did me a most wonderful amount of good when I was in a nervous state. My nervousness prevented sleeping at night, which added to my general breakdown. I considered my condition very bad, and accordingly was depressed and low spirited. My digestive organs were not in proper trim and this interfered with nutrition, causing me to grow thin and pale. A bad liver, too, gave me a sallow complexion, but the liver trouble, as well as constipation, was fully relieved by your 'Pleasant Pills.' As to my general afflictions, they were benefited in a most satisfactory way by 'Golden Medical Discovery.'—Miss S. G. CONKLE, 28 Tullin St., Atlanta, Ga.

Now is the time to bring to your aid Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (in tablet or liquid form). This wonderful remedy helps to restore the growth to its natural health and strength and to secure proper flow of the digestive juices, a good appetite and full digestion of the food you eat. It invigorates the liver, regulates the bowels and purifies and enriches the blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is absolutely free from alcohol and injurious drugs. You can take it and be certain you will find it a true blood-purifier, tissue-builder, and restorative nerve tonic and that it will produce no evil after-effects. Thousands—probably many of your own neighbors—are willing to recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because it has made them stronger in body, brain and nerve.

Write Doctor Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice and for a free book on woman's diseases. (Adv.)

LOAN FUND PLANNED FOR WORTHY BOYS AND GIRLS

Georgia Bankers' Committee to Advance Money for Agricultural Education

A loan fund for worthy boys and girls seeking an agricultural education in the state institutions was planned Wednesday by the agricultural committee of the Georgia Bankers' association.

The association has already subscribed $1500 for this purpose, but it is proposed to add to this fund until several thousand dollars become available.

A resolution was also adopted by the committee providing for thirty scholarships to the short course at the state college of agriculture, the number offered last year. They will be equally divided between boys and girls.

Scholarships will not be offered to boys in the corn clubs or girls in the canning clubs, but to boys and girls in the agricultural and domestic science clubs, respectively.

A. P. Collier, vice president of the Central Bank and Trust corporation, gave $100 to be used in defraying the expenses of four boys and girls in the short course, and J. Phil Campbell, head of the extension work of the state college, told the committee they could make no better investment than in sending boys and girls to the state college.

It was the feeling of the association that the association's fund should be given to boys and girls only for the short course, but the committee finally took the position that the applicants should be given small loans to take them through the entire course. It was considered better to make loans than to contribute outright donations.

RULES GOVERNING LOANS.

The rules governing the loan fund were agreed on as follows:

No applicant will be loaned less than $20 nor more than $100.

Notes will be required payable in installments, to begin one year after the applicant leaves the educational institution for which the loan first applied.

Interest of 4 per cent will be charged.

All applicants must be at least 15 years old and the application for a loan must be signed by the educational institution or trustee, with the exception of applicants who are of age. Their own statements will be accepted.

Each applicant will be required to furnish to the agricultural committee a monthly statement showing all expenditures made and the amount of the income earned by the boy or girl while in college.

The committee decided to limit the schools that may be entered to the state college at Athens, the Georgia Normal and Industrial Institute at Milledgeville and the South Georgia Normal school at Valdosta. This provision, however, is only for the next year or two, since it is planned to extend the scope of the work so that a boy or girl may attend the district agricultural schools nearest to their home as soon as the machinery of the movement is well under way.

Soda Fount Used For Marriage Altar For a Young Couple

Atlanta has had marriages performed in all sorts of curious places, including the dome of the state capitol and the boiler room of the capitol, but it was maintained by W. O. Stewart, of Griffin, and Miss Rena May Smith, of Atlanta, to use a soda fountain for the purpose.

Mr. Stewart came up from Griffin Wednesday afternoon, met his bride and two girl friends, and drove to the court house in a cab and obtained a marriage license.

The next thing was a preacher. Finding to find one in the court house, they asked for a policeman. Finding this, they sought Chief George Mathison, of the county force. The chief directed them to Judge J. A. Owens, whose office is across from the court house and whose authority extends to the performance of marriages. The judge fixed them up in short order.

A soda fount at 19 South Pryor street being the most convenient place for the ceremony, the judge led them there and united them in the holy bonds, while passersby applauded and wished them a long and happy life. They left immediately for Griffin.

CANDY TO BE SUPPLIED PRISONERS AT U. S. PEN

Ration Will Consist of Two Pounds Per Month for Each Man

Federal prisoners with a sweet tooth are to be allowed a candy ration at the federal penitentiary.

The ration will consist of two pounds a month for each man. It will be supplied in bulk by an Atlanta manufacturer, and the prisoners will buy it at retail through the chief clerk.

Hitherto the prisoners have been allowed to buy certain things, including tobacco, chewing gum and the like, and the prisoners will buy it at retail through the chief clerk.

Another visit from the attorney general is expected shortly at the prison when he will consult with Warden Zerk about putting the prisoners to work on saddles, boots and other army supplies.

The warden says that the men there can do this work as well as any others, and that, moreover, they will have plenty of time for it now that construction work on the buildings is about completed.

CHURCHES PLAN TRIBUTE TO DR. AND MRS. WHITE

Joint Farewell Service Will Be Held at Second Baptist Church Sunday

A farewell service to Dr. and Mrs. John Ellington White will be held at the Second Baptist church next Sunday under the auspices of the Second Baptist Bible school and the Bible schools of churches of several other denominations will join in honoring Dr. and Mrs. White.

Dr. White, who is leaving the pastorate of the Second Baptist church for a charge in Anderson, S. C., has been a leading figure in the religious life of the city for the past fifteen years, and is known to thousands of his parishioners who will deeply regret his departure.

The unique tribute of many denominations joining in a farewell service and a minister will mean an unusually large attendance at the services, which will be in charge of John S. Spaulding, superintendent of the Second Baptist Bible school.

Besides a beautiful song service there will be messages of farewell from English Lutheran Sunday school, by C. H. Steidlitz, superintendent; St. Phillips Episcopal Sunday school, by C. F. Barnwell, superintendent; Trinity Methodist Sunday school, by W. C. Mansfield, superintendent; First Christian Sunday school, by LeRoy Horner, superintendent; Central Presbyterian Sabbath school, by John J. Egan, superintendent; board of deacons, by A. D. Adair, chairman; Woman's Missionary and Benevolent society, by Mrs. A. C. Newell, vice president; Business Women's League, by Mrs. Frederic J. Paxson, president; Baptist Young People's union, by C. C. Wayne, president; Dr. A. T. Spaulding, former pastor of Second church 1871 to 1881.

At the conclusion of the exercises a gift from the members of the church and of the Bible school will be presented to Dr. and Mrs. White. The presentation will be made by Dr. John S. Spaulding.

DOCTORS SAY GRADY SHOULD BE ALL FREE

Resolutions indorsing bonds for Grady hospital as a strictly charitable institution were adopted Wednesday night by the Atlanta Physicians club in session at the Kimball house.

The physicians were agreed that Grady conditions are at present deplorable and facilities inadequate; that only discussion being whether or not the institution should maintain any wards.

The action of the Atlanta Physicians club follows the enthusiastic indorsement of Grady bonds by the Fulton County Medical society and the Atlanta Rotary club.

MR. G. M. GAISSERT DIES AT HIS HOME IN BUCKHEAD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) BUCKHEAD, Ga., July 22.—For some ten years a resident of Buckhead, Mr. George M. Gaissert, age 49, died at his home at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, after a severe illness of more than a year.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sallie B. Gaissert, one son, George T. Gaissert, and three brothers, Mr. J. H. Gaissert and Mr. W. W. Gaissert, of Morgan county and Mr. R. L. Gaissert, of Atlanta.

Mrs. N. E. McBrayer Dies

(Special Dispatch to The Journal) NORTON, Ga., July 22.—Mrs. N. E. McBrayer died yesterday morning. She had been sick for some time, and had had several strokes of paralysis. She was the wife of Rev. N. E. McBrayer, of the North Georgia conference. She was sixty-five years of age. Surviving her are her husband and eight children.

I. J. CASSETT, for three years advertising manager for M. Rich & Bros. company, who leaves Sunday for Boston, where he will take charge of the advertising of the Shepard-Norwell store, one of the largest stores in the north.

I. J. CASSETT ACCEPTS NEW POSITION IN BOSTON

Rich's Advertising Manager Takes Similar Place With Shepard-Norwell Store

I. J. Cassett, who has directed the advertising of M. Rich & Bros. company for the past three years, leaves Atlanta Sunday night to take charge of the advertising of the Shepard-Norwell department store in Boston, one of the largest stores in that city and one of the notable stores of the country.

Because of the size and reputation of this Boston store, it is looked upon as a compliment both to the high class advertising methods of M. Rich & Bros. company and to Mr. Cassett that he should be selected by this store to be its advertising manager. Mr. Cassett's selection was due to the fact that the big Boston store and M. Rich & Bros. company have much the same ideas in their advertising, ideas that Mr. Cassett has worked out in Atlanta for the past three years.

"The better class stores throughout the country are working along identical lines today," said Mr. Cassett. "Every successful store must always have on hand ample stocks of clean, fresh merchandise; each store must observe the return privilege or 'money-back' policy on purchases not satisfactory; each store must give a full measure of service and satisfaction for what it receives from the customer—the old idea of taking without adequate giving is piracy."

"Instead of following the haphazard method of the early store keeper, the modern department store follows exact merchandising laws. Successful stores the country over have ceased playing luck against luck; they know that, in order to succeed, they must always have the right merchandise at the right time at the right price. They must also have courteous and trained sales people to present this merchandise and a policy that insures the satisfaction of each customer."

"After a store has formulated its policies, trained its sales people and assembled its merchandise, it is the business of the advertising manager to interpret this policy and to present this merchandise to the store's customers."

It was doing this work so ably for the past three years in Atlanta that brought Mr. Cassett his reward in the broader field of Boston.

Mr. Cassett's associates at Rich's see him go with regret, and his many friends in Atlanta will greatly miss him.

RECEIVERSHIP OF ATLANTA CLUB CAUSE OF DISPUTE

Appointees of State and Federal Courts Seek to Oust Each Other

Litigation over the receivership of the Atlanta club in both the state and federal courts has reached the point where two parties are each seeking to have the proceedings of the other stopped.

Monday certain creditors of the club filed a petition for receivership in the superior court and Judge Bell appointed Dr. George Brown, president of the club, Tuesday members of the club's board of directors filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court, and Referee Percy H. Adams named Harry Dodd receiver.

Wednesday the superior court to the creditors' petition, asking that the receiver appointed by Judge Bell turn the club's assets over to him. Judge Bell set a hearing for Thursday morning, but postponed it until next Monday when Thomas B. Felder, Dr. Brown's attorney, stated he was preparing to go before the referee and ask that the voluntary petition in bankruptcy be thrown out as irregular.

Attorney Felder told Judge Bell that the meeting of the board of directors which resulted in the filing of the bankruptcy petition was not fully attended, some of the directors not having been notified. He said the very men who filed the petition are indebted to the club to the sum of $1,500 and that neither the president nor vice president of the club signed the petition.

Joseph Lazar, as chairman of the executive committee, has been selected as master of ceremonies and will be in charge of the speaking and other matters.

The building is now under construction and will represent a cost, when completed, of $22,000.

TODAY'S

(Copyright, 1915, by W. Verne.)

JENNY LEE came slowly down Mile street from the Herrick house on the hill, where she had been sewing all day. The evening was so warm that the coat she had needed in the morning felt uncomfortable now, and she had thrown it back on her shoulders. She was late in getting home because she had stayed to tea. In Westmore a seamstress is entitled to two meals as well as to a dollar, which in Jenny's case was a real godsend.

As she walked Jenny thought dreamily of the pretty things she had worked upon all day—the sheer, lace-trimmed linens which Miss Herrick was to wear under her wedding gown. Jenny had always made Miss Herrick's clothing, and, although the beautiful satin wedding gown was beyond her skill, she was fashioning the things that went with it. She had even seen the gown itself, which had arrived that day from the city—a pretty robe, with a veil like morning mist. But it was less the dress she remembered than the lifted radiance of Miss Herrick's face as she cried: "Oh, Jenny, don't you just wish you were me!"

Jenny Lee was tired tonight—tired in body and spirit. She dragged along like a bird with broken wings. Mile street streamed with lighted cars, whose occupants were coming off after the heat and stress of the day. Jenny had to wait a long time at a crossing before she could get sufficient courage to pass over. Then she moved down a shabby, old, quiet street which grew darker and quieter and shabbier the farther she went. At the very end was her house.

Two generations of Lees had occupied the house before it came to Jenny. It was a little gray house like a hornet's nest. On either side of the yard were patios, but the front was open to the street. Here crowded Jenny's flowers, some of which were descendants of her grandmother's posies. Soft waves of perfume rose into the night air. They came forward to greet Jenny. She could distinguish the odor of: soft pink, bluish roses, and white nancies for an old, sweet, simple reason of her own. As she went up the narrow path she reached out and broke a bit from the nearest white flower cluster and pressed it to her face. Its sweetness and the memory of Miss Herrick's wedding dress set her heart aching.

Jenny opened the door. The close, cozy breath of her home breathed upon her. The room was not so dark, for the moon was floating up, like a white globe. Jenny took off her hat. She started to take off her gray hat, and then she changed her mind. She also removed the chimney from the lamp and started to strike a match, but changed her mind about that also.

"I'm always changing my mind," she thought. "It has been my curse."

She dropped down into the nearest chair and submitted herself to reflection. "I wish I hadn't seen that dress," she thought. "I wish they hadn't asked me to make those bridal things. It brings it all back. It has seemed all day as if—A sob came into her throat. She tried to swallow it. "Why, if he was right here in the room with me he couldn't be any nearer than he has been all day."

The small, warm room choked her. A puff of air came in at the open door, freshly scented with the night's distillations. The dark became very dark in the corners, but across the floor under the window the moon's white plane grew. Jenny sat staring at it. "It's a pretty night," she thought. "I guess I won't light up at all. I guess I'll just go to bed by the moonlight." She rose to close the door, but paused to look out. The flowers seemed to sigh, moonbeams to beckon. "I might sit in the porch a few minutes," she thought. "I'm not very sleepy." She went to the side of the flower-fenced, latticed porch with a wooden settee. Jenny sat down. With her hands folded, she looked wistfully at the flowers which bloomed and rocked in the moonlight. She looked until she ceased to see or think or move. She had fallen asleep. Slowly, as if she were being pulled by the threads of fate, she opened her eyes. A shroud of dream clung to her. She seemed to hear a voice and

I VOLUNTEERED TO ACCOMPANY HER AND CARRIED HER STICK. THE ONLY THING I THOUGHT SHE COULD TALK ABOUT WAS COWS, SO I TALKED COWS.

"AH," SAID I, "WHAT A DEBT MAN OWES THE COW! SHE SUPPLIES HIM WITH MILK!" AND THE CALF, TOO, MR. DIPPEY! SHE VENTURED SHYLY.

to behold a face which long years before had passed out of her life. The moon was right over the flowers he had always admired. Oh, if she might die before she awoke! This man moved. She moved. She rose to her feet. He came toward her. She heard him say, "They stood looking at each other, half bewildered, half curious. She heard him draw a deep breath. She saw him forth her hand to meet it. This brought them a little nearer still.

"Well, it is a long time since I was here last," he said. She nodded. "Twenty-one years next month. The 17th, Thursday."

"Yes, I hadn't forgotten. The trumpet vine has grown some. That's about the only change I see." He gazed at her eagerly. "About the only change," Jenny replied. She sank down upon the step and he took his seat beside her. They gazed at the garden in silence. "I notice you're still growing white nancies," he remarked at last. This seemed to drag Jenny out of her daze. "Yes," she replied. "I carried one of those flowers with me clear to Argentina," he said. "It was that brought me back—partly." He drew forth his pocketbook, opened it and showed her a carefully preserved pressed flower. "It's gone wherever I've gone for twenty-one years. I guess it's been a kind of talisman. You see, they didn't grow white nancies down there. So I kept this one. And now I've brought it back. Funny isn't it? But the catch in his voice did not sound as though he thought so. "Jenny," he asked tentatively, "did you ever wish that—that you'd come with me that time?" "Oh, John!" Her voice came in a sob. "If you knew how I have wished! God only knows what made me change my mind. I wanted to go with you, but that night—" She shivered. He put his arms about her and drew her nearer. "That night," she went on, more bravely, "it was just such a night as this. Remember? The white nancies were all out and it was all so sweet and familiar and cozy. I couldn't bear to leave it. And father and mother were coaxing me to stay. I never did have much mind of my own and when they said that if you really cared you would stay with me instead of making me go with you—" "I guess there was some truth in that," he said sadly. "I was wild for adventure, and I didn't understand all I was asking you to do. I have since I'd married. And then I said to myself, 'I'll just go back and look at the white nancies anyhow.' He kissed her tenderly. Jenny's face was sweeter than any flower under the moonlight, as she lifted it to his. "John," she murmured, "the white nancies—I—I've kept them growing—for you!"

A brown rustic basket filled with sunflowers and golden glow formed the artistic center piece and the place cards were hand-painted sunflowers attached to the crystal goblets.

The guests included twelve friends of the hostess.

W. Rocky, in West End. The bride was crowned in a stylish traveling dress and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Olive Rocky, and the groom's brother, Mr. Lawrence stines Archer, acted as best man. The Rev. Wallace Rogers officiated. Crackers Play Last of Series With Vols—Leave Tonight for Three-Weeks' Trip—Game Called at 3 o'Clock—Even Break Wednesday

As all between southpaws is likely to be the attraction at Ponce de Leon this afternoon, when the Crackers and Vols meet for the first time in the series, the game today will start at 3 o'clock. The early starting is necessary to permit the Crackers to get an early train out for Memphis where they open a series with the Chickasaws at 10 o'clock. The double bill Wednesday would open the season with the Harbors tomorrow.

The first contest was a battle between the Crackers and the Vols. The game was a close one, with the Crackers leading in the first inning, but the Vols came back in the second and third innings to tie the game. BY GRANTLAND DICE

Who'll grab the flag in the old N. L.? The Phils look well. With Alec the Swell. While up from the jell. In the mad pell-mell. The poyeed Dodgers are rasnell. And the Giants are there with the shot and shell. Safely out of the Bosky Dell. With the Cubs still ready to ring the bell. While the Braves for the moment have lost their smell. With Evers back as the sentinel. To try and open the ancient spell. Before unkempt Fate sounds the knell. At over the plain comes the Pirate yell. And only a grease spot soon will tell. To show the spot where the Redbirds fell. Thus endeth the daily doggerel.

It conditions continue to boom, the main trouble with baseball very soon will be lack of accommodations to handle the output of frenzied fans storming the turnstile.

WE RARELY DELIVE IN PAKES. Sir—Why don't you tell the story about the Scotchman who overpaid his caddy? T. F. Which brings in an old yarn with a fairly new twist. After a golf round few days ago some one mentioned the close race in the National League. "I've seen a much closer one," remarked Jerry Travers, "but I've seen a much closer one." "Where?" queried a bystander. "When I played through Scotland," Jerry replied.

THE WAR AND GOLF.

Another canny Scot requests us to answer the query recently made by some Vox Populi as to the effect that golfers were making the poorest showing among all sportsmen in the European war. Why try and reply to the mauling rave of the ignorant? No commonwealth has the right to show in war than Scotland, where the majority are golfers. Golf has lost more steady contenders than any other sport, but what are the records to a guy with an argument to start?

ON THE ROAD.

The four eastern clubs in the N. L.—Dodgers, Giants, Phils and Braves—have all improved their standing in the community by a good many points since reaching the friendly odor of home cooking. Their road shows have been a success in the eyes of the public. But with a few days they take to the road again—and then we'll begin to know about the conclusion of things. Back home, Cubs, Pirates and Cards are sure to offer an improved defense, and it remains to be seen, as the sage saying is, which of the eastern clubs can continue the drive on alien soil under hostile surroundings. If we are to gain any answer as to the ultimate destination of the National League, the road is the only way to find out. The club that can keep pounding forward these next two or three weeks away from home should win out—provided any one of the eastern four can pack away a winning game while shivering under a western July and August sun.

BACK HOME.

Here is exactly where the present odds favor the Red Sox. They have been able to continue their uplift on the road and are almost sure to reach Fenway Park in the lead. If neither Tigers nor White Sox can catch them, they will be there to stay. There is a possibility that these two clubs can charge into Boston and beat the Red Sox at home.

THE TIGER DEFICIENCY.

While Detroit has been very deficient in the art of run-getting, the Red Sox have too large an edge in the box to be beaten by the Tigers unless there is a big improvement in the box. Detroit is up against a heavy handicap in sending her pitching staff out to compete with Wood, Collins, Ruth, Foster, Leonard and others.

A RETURN DUEL.

The best move eastern managers can make after California invasion is to keep fairly silent about causes and effects and seek a return match in the east. Conditions may have been against the invading team—but leaving that alone, the fact remains that the California team was a waker on the east against McCullough, Johnston, Murray and Strahan. But it would be more than worth while to have the east select for at four and call for a return to the east for a return match. Especially so when there is sufficient material from both sections to build up a contest that should be replete with thrills.

THIS TAKES THE PRIZE AS THE FREAK YEAR AROUND.

One sporting writer is now busy engaged in attempting to drive out baseball and install cricket as the national game. At one time we figured a number of the earnest athletes were over-paid. But Giants and Pirates are booked to play seven games in four days, ending July 31. If this isn't earning a stipend, there is no such episode.

RAJAH'S BASEBALL CAREER FILLED WITH BRIGHT SPOTS

CHICAGO, July 22.—When John McGraw, manager of the Baltimore team of the American League, signed Roger Bresnahan for the season of 1901 the real baseball career of the world's greatest player began. The manager of the Baltimore team had gathered around him to do battle in the new league were anything but innocent lads, a squad of battle-scarred and hardened veterans, the chief of whom were Mike Donlin, Jack Dunn, Cy Seymour, Williams, Steve Brodie, Joe Medlin and the great McGraw himself. This crew could have been up to umpires, but the manager of the Baltimore team had gathered around him to do battle in the new league were anything but innocent lads, a squad of battle-scarred and hardened veterans, the chief of whom were Mike Donlin, Jack Dunn, Cy Seymour, Williams, Steve Brodie, Joe Medlin and the great McGraw himself.

McGraw hired Bresnahan as a pitcher. After Roger's first game Mac came to the manager of the Baltimore team and said: "I've got a new idea. I want you to play as a pitcher. You're a natural." SOME INSIDE FACTS

Wilson of Birmingham and Little Rock Gives Points About Natural Vitalitas

Mr. J. O. Wilson, for many years a well known druggist of Birmingham, and for the past ten years of A. C. Reed Drug company, of Little Rock, of which concern he was manager, gives a very interesting interview regarding the handling of proprietary remedies.

"In all my experience," he says, "the remedy that gave the satisfaction and good results that Vitalitas did." Mr. Wilson, recalls many specific cases among his customers wherein Vitalitas brought about remarkable cures. Two instances ho mentions in particular were: One of an old gentleman, and a good customer of the store, who had been troubled with rheumatism for fifteen years. Vitalitas was his first remedy had ever found to give him complete relief. The other was of a lady sixty-five years old, who had suffered for twenty-five years with nervous stomach troubles. Vitalitas then cured her.

Mr. Wilson adds: "I never heard anything but the greatest of praise for Vitalitas and never have handled a preparation that has done me so much good." Mr. Wilson is now in Bessemer, Ala., at the home of Mr. E. V. Nunnally, Route 3.

Vitalitas is Nature's greatest corrective and tonic and is wonderfully beneficial for disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood.

See the unique display and sample Vitalitas at Jacobs' Pharmacy, 23 Whitehall St., or write there for information.—(Adv.)
